To the Employer:

Please extend the honor of this signed and embossed original certificate every courtesy, and provide every opportunity for this individual to obtain employment within your organization.

This student has demonstrated that he/she has developed a work ethic in school that you may find extends to performance on the job.

Studies show that if employers were to request some items of school performance record at the point of entry-level hire, they could reinforce the message that students need to hear: that learning, trying and doing more in school results in earning more throughout a lifetime. The discipline needed to attend school every day and be on time, to do homework and get good grades speaks volumes about later work attitudes and successful employment."

This School Counts! Certificate indicates that a student has developed and maintained a professional-level work ethic through one or more years of high school.

Make sure students know that school counts. Ask for the School Counts! Certificate whenever you interview high school students or graduates for full- or part-time entry-level positions.
